Reminiscences of the Press of the Oil Country.

By O. H. Jackson, of the Pleasantville Gaslight.

The Titusville Gazette office was burned out in the winter of '62-63 and one of the proprietor, A. M. Fuller, sat about laying the keel for the Petroleum Reporter in the early part of the summer following. The launching took place in June following, from the old wooden building recently removed from the corner of Spring and Martin streets. On the first number of that paper we took our first lesson in the mysterious art of type setting under the tuition of John Glazier, foreman of the office. Cyrus Fuller, of the firm of Funk, Jackson & Fuller, was a compositor in the office as also was W. Durand, a brother-in-law to Mr. A. M. Fuller. After a short but successful career, Mr. Fuller, having exposed himself to the flood of oil which gushed up from the Noble and Delamater well, took the oil fever—ventured—lost at a sacrifice, and in company with Durand, sought his fortune in Chicago, and was soon promoted to the position of foreman in the job department of the Chicago Journal office. The Reporter office after passing through various manipulations came into possession of Messrs. Bloss Brothers & Cogswell, who issued the MORNING HERALD, the first daily paper in the oil region, and made it what it is.

Walter R. Johns came on to Oil City with a press and a small quantity of type in 1862, and started the Oil City Register, which soon gained a wide popularity; but that paper in a pecuniary point of view, was never a success. The office passed into the hands of an association—swallowed up the Oil City Monitor—issued a daily—met in its various transits with various degrees of success until it has now grown into the daily and weekly Times and is an honor to the city.

The Pithole Record, now Petroleum Centre Record, was called into existence by the unparalleled growth of Pithole City. It was at one time the representative organ of a city of 18,000 inhabitants, and was enlivened by the witticisms and well aimed sarcasms of "Dedbete," "Crocus," and "Oftegoff." The Record lived to see the glories of Pithole depart, whole streets obliterated and wiped out of the maps, blocks of buildings hawked about the streets of and neighboring towns, for sale at five or ten per cent. of the original cost, her Opera House and her Chase House torn down and hauled away, wards melt away in the breath of the fire-king, never to be rebuilt, and then with downcast look and dejected air, took its way over the hills to Petroleum Centre and still lives.

Close & Lake, printers from Buffalo, came on to Titusville, in 1864 and started a small job office, to which an association of Democrats added material for a newspaper, and the Evening Club made its appearance with M. N. Allen, a clear-headed, vigorous writer, and withal, a posted politician as editor. Titusville was too small to support two good dailies, and as the MORNING HERALD was master of the situation, the Evening Club disappeared and was succeeded by the Evening Journal, the Tri-Weekly Journal, the Morning Journal, the Morning Democrat, the Evening Journal, the Weekly Journal, the Morning Star, each of which lived its brief hour and expired. The material of the office resolved itself into its original element and formed part of the stump out of which has grown respectively the Evening News, the Pleasantville Advertiser, and the Gaslight of Pleasantville, and the second edition of the Register at Oil City.

Some time prior to the establishment of the Soldier's Orphan School at Titusville, Gordon S. Berry became the owner of a printing office brought from Corry by Messrs. Day & McCormick, and from which the Corry Evening Review was issued a short time. The school was no sooner well established than the boys, in a feeble way at first, issued a little paper which after four enlargements and three changes in name, has culminated in the Long Roll, the organ of the system of Soldiers' Orphans' Schools for the State, a large quarto, well printed and ably edited.

The Petroleum Centre Daily Era was an offshoot of the Pithole Record; its authorship was sworn upon the editor of the Gaslight, and we had to enter a plea of guilty, but got out of supporting the brat by hiding in the lumber woods above Hydetown.

Now, right here, Charley Wicker, didn't you rather sock it to the old man in the sale to him of those broken fonts of worn out type?

The material of the Era, after several changes of ownership, was removed to Erie and became the nucleus form and around which has grown up the Erie Daily Republican.

Pete Conver, of the Forest Press, was the newspaper pioneer in the wilderness up the river; the Franklin papers were established shortly after the flood, and that is all we know about the origin of the milk in the cocoanut.

The Fashions.

STYLES JUST FROM PARIS—SOIREE, WALKING COSTUMES, LACE SHAWLS, CHIGNONS, RUFFS, &C.

From the New York Mail.

The mild budding spring will soon flower and blossom as quietly into the more complete loveliness of summer, whose expanded beauties will furnish fresh and brilliant scenes to the admiring eye of the truly artistic. And Fashion, ever thoughtful and constant, denies to her votaries nothing. And as the seasons roll around she invents new styles for the toilet, suiting all classes, all occasions and all ages.

WALKING SUITS

Are generally made of silk, and yet alpacas and French poplins are considered stylish, and, being cheaper than foulards, will doubtless be much worn by a very large class. Fashion still advocates an abundance of trimmings, any quantity of puckering and bunching, and a general slashing up of dry goods. The promenade suits are made of a convenient walking length. The skirt garnished with a wide flounce at the bottom, headed with a plaiting of the same material, is much admired, and the full open sleeve has also gained favor. The latest fashion for a street toilet is a costume of Japanese silk, the most recherche color in pearl-gray. The skirt is trimmed with fine folds of taffetas, and particular attention is required to place these folds just three inches apart. The two lower ones are only permitted to extend entirely around the skirt. The apron is rather wide, and garnished with a four-inch ruffle of slate-colored silk, finished with a heading of fushing silk. The body is high, and trimmed to correspond with the skirt. A gathered postilion forms a pannier at the back. This is also formed with ruffles and ruchings, and the whole forming a complete Parisian walking costume, with the butterfly bow trimmed and confined at the belt in the back. The sleeve is rather more room than those worn last season, yet the style still the coat-sleeve shape. This costume is very lady-like, and not at all expensive.

EVENING TOILETS

Are made of a variety of fabrics, in fact most any light material looks well in the evening, but for an elegant stylish costume crepe de chine, foulard and poult de soie are the favorites. Faille is also much in vogue. The very latest fashion for an evening toilet is called "heart's ease," certainly a very appropriate name for the season. The dress with court train, the material poult de soie of a delicate color, lemon shade, is decidedly the most Parisian in style.

The petticoat is made of the same material as the dress, trimmed profusely with bouillons of white tulle. The skirt is elegantly adorned with two puffings of tulle, extending from the waist to the bottom of the skirt. The revers are gracefully held back with bunches of pansies, mixed with some green sprays. The corsage cut low and pointed, trimmed with small puffs, the front finished, with bunches of pansies on the bosom and shoulders. The sleeves short and garnished with puffs. There is no sash to this dress, but in lieu of it are pansies and foliage arranged in a large bouquet.

SOIREE TOILET

Admits of much style, and should only be made of rich, elegant material. The latest novelty for such costumes we were shown at the Demorest Temple of Fashions. The dress was en train, with petticoat, the whole made of taffetas, elaborately trimmed. A wide plaiting extended round the train, with blue faille, forming a heading on both sides, which was garnished with point de Bruxelles. On the plaiting, in a diagonal form, were narrow ruchings, adorned on each side with lace.

The petticoat was trimmed in the same novel style. The corsage cut chale shape, a position adorning the back, the whole trimmed with ruchings of crape and point de Bruxelles. This charming toilet has a very elegant appearance, and is decidedly the most distingue costume for the evening that we have seen this season.

A RECEPTION TOILET.

Material poult de soie favorite color vert de Nil, demi-train, garnished with a very unique trimming made of feathers of the same shade as the dress. The over-skirt is bordered with the same feather trimmings; corsage a basque; finished at the back with a plaited postilion.

Fashion has decreed that harmony must be traced in the tout ensemble of a lady's toilet, hence a bonnet worn with the reception dress is made of crepe de chine, either cottage or gipsy style, the left side ornamented with a delicate pink rose, nestling amid short drooping plumes.

LACE SHAWLS

Are always elegant and always fashionable. Of course they are worn in various styles, just as the fickle goddess decrees; however, their popularity among the elite has never diminished, and every lady should possess this convenient toilet article.

CHIGNONS.

Have acquired increased popularity. A penchant for a large sized head is universal, but the mandates of Dame Fashion must be regarded, hence very large chignons are this season much in vogue at the establishment of Mlle. A. D. Francois. We saw some novelties for the adornment of the head which have just arrived from Paris. The bridal chignon is quiet plain; the front hair is combed back very smoothly, and should there be an abundance of it, braids are formed, and these are gracefully carried round the chignon, which is adorned with curls made to carelessly fall at the back; no flowers, except the bridal wreath.

Long curls at the side are no longer fashionable, but short, frizzled hair is quite stylish for the front and sides of the head. For a full-dress the chignon is worn quite low and plain—braids are not considered stylish. A profusion of short curls adorn the entire water-fall, and long curls gracefully fall over the same. Small ribbon bows garnish the sides of the chignon.

RUFFS,

Said to have been invented by a court lady who was afflicted with a wen on her neck, and this fashionable adornment for the neck concealed her deformity. This ancient article for the toilet is again brought into existence, we only trust not for the purpose of hiding any personal defect. The ruff so admired by Queen Elizabeth will doubtless become a favorite with the fashionables. It looks well on all. Those made of fine muslin, and garnished with thread-lace, having the ends about half as wide as the back of the ruff, with straps of ribbon put on in sections of an inch and a half, are the most fashionable. The plain plaited ruff is very much admired, and certainly has a soft, etherial appearance, and cannot fail to please the most fastidious.

The Last Slaughter — The Frightful Collision on the Pacific Railroad.

From the St. Louis Republican of May 13.

The accident was a collision between the east-bound express train, due at St. Louis at 6 a. m. yesterday morning, and a west-bound extra freight train that left this city during the night previous. The express train had five passenger cars and a baggage car, and the freight train was a long heavy one, drawn by a powerful locomotive. At the point of collision, a mile and a half east of Eureka, there is an embankment fifteen feet high, where the road curves so sharply that two approaching trains cannot see each other until close together. It was at this perilous spot, of all others, that the approaching trains, each unconscious of the others' presence, and each thundering forward at a rapid rate of speed; were doomed to meet. There was but one instant's warning of the terrible danger to which the express train was rushing, too short to permit it to be averted. A boy standing beside the engineer of his train, Mr. Jackson, was the first to descry the smoke stack of the approaching freight engine entering the curve at the cast, just as the express entered it at the west; he pointed to it and directed the attention of Mr. Jackson the danger at the same moment. Jackson instantly reversed his engine, and gave the two sharp, quick whistles that call for the application of the brakes. The brakesman promptly responded at the word of command, and put up the brake-close and tight. This broke the force of the express train's speed somewhat, but not sufficiently. No application of human power could brake up the heavy freight train and bring it to a halt under half a mile. The two engines rushed at each other like mulligan and enraged monsters, grappled with a tremendous crash, reared from the track in a mortal wrestle and fell into helpless, and disjointed fragments on the ground. The shock was terrible. The tender, baggage car, and the two forward passenger cars of the express train on one side, and the tender and several box cars of the freight train on the other, rushed into the crush with their respective engines, leaving, at that quiet, rural spot, on that placid May morning, a disordered and frightful ruin, spattered with the blood of forty human beings, entrapped and mutilated beneath its shapeless mass. There was no warning to the passengers, and none of them had time to jump and escape from the fate that came so suddenly and swiftly. One moment they were in the repose of imagined security; the next they were crushed dead, or maimed between an incumbent weight that held them as in a vise. The two engines were driven with such force into each other that it was almost impossible, after he collision, to distinguish the parts of one from the other. The crushed cars were jammed together, the cars being shivered into long slivers, and the seats, wheels, trucks and irons blended into an indiscribable heap, that rolled off down the embankment. The three rear cars of the express train shared the concussion, but escaped the fate of the two forward ones. After the collision they were found standing stiff and still on the track, with their breaks close up, showing that the break-men had done their duty well in responding to the engineer's whistle before they leaped from the train.

The spectacle was one impossible to view without absolute horror. As a soldier passenger said, "I have been through many battles, but never saw so sickening a scene." It was chaos and death combined. The engines both on the same side of the embankment, were but a heap of battered fragments, while around on all sides was the confusion of ruin twice confounded. The baggage car and the one next to it were shivered as if by an internal explosion, and the maze of broken timbers, iron rods, wheels, and other portions of the car, looked like the frantic work of some infernal agency. It was a glorious May day, and mingling with the bloody fragments strewn around were the delicate green blades and stems of spring verdure. But for hours after the collision no opportunity was afforded to view the wreck in the aggregate. One's eyes were constantly drawn to the various spots from whence cries proceeded—cries of agony from some wretched victim—or else to the pallid limbs or faces of the dead, of which glances could be obtained through the spaces in the wreck.

In a collision the principal loss of life generally results from wood splinters, sharp jagged spears that fly with the shock, like arrows from the hand of a giant. Several of the victims of this accident were slain in this way, and to look close into the wreck yesterday was to see the evidences of this. Red human blood could be seen on the fresh hue of the newly-rent wood, or a point of wood protruded, stained with the life-tide of some dead person, whose body was invisible. In many cases there were wounded and dead which it was impossible to see amid the tangled mass of broken wood and iron; often, however, the little red stream of blood flowing down some slanting beam, or else dropping slowly on the ground, indicated a spot of death or some senseless victim still breathing. More horrible, however, than the bodies killed by impaling wood splinters, were those crushed by heavy masses of iron or wood driven against them as if fired from a cannon. A human body reduced almost to a bloody pulp by crushing forms a frightful picture in nearly all serious railroad collisions, and was not absent from this.

Genealogy of the Stage.

A clever contributor to the Charleston (S. C.) Courier, in the course of some interesting reminiscences of the "Early Days of the Darma in Charleston," gives this interesting gossip about certain noted dramatic families:

"How few sons there have been on whose shoulders has fallen the mantle of a father's glory in political life; to whom a father's powers have descended to enable them bravely to follow in the footsteps and to fill with distinction the place of one who, perhaps, in his day, was like another Rienzi—

"The forum's champion and the people's chief."

"Only two instances I can call to mind—the great Earl of Chatham, and his son William Pitt, in the British Parliament; and in this country, John Adams, and his son John Quincy Adams, the latter the father of Charles Francis Adams, former Minister to England.

"Only two families, I say, are distinguished to this extent in the history of the world—the Pitts in England, the Adamses in America. Whereas, let me see whether I can not enumerate several remarkable instances, in various families, of those who have inherited a genius for the stage, which, gradually developing itself, gave them at last pre-eminence in their calling.

"In the 'Kemble' family, for instance, the first of the name I find mentioned as an actor is Roger Kemble, who was a manager of a strolling company in the middle of the last century, performing in England, in Lancashire. He had a large family 'born to the boards'—Mrs. Siddons, Mrs. Whitlock, John Kemble, Stephen Kemble and Charles Kemble, Fannie Kemble being the daughter of Charles.

Curiosities of Advertising.

The New York Standard, in an article on the Curiosities of Advertising, says:

"An advertiser recently stated to us, that of an advertisement inserted by him in five hundred newspapers in the Union, one journal, with a circulation less than five thousand, proved to be of more value than the same insorted in another with two hundred thousand. All these shades of importance must be considered and allowed for; the circulation, the politics, the clearness of printing, the time the newspaper has been established, the ability with which it is edited and its worth for other purposes. * * Another consideration is position. An advertiser frequently desires to have the widest extent possible for his orders, and so a good paper in the East may be sacrificed for one not good in the West."

The same article says: "Dr. Brandreth has spent two million and a half of dollars on his medicines in making them known. Holloway expended six hundred thousand dollars last year for the same purpose. The largest advertiser within the last two or three years has been Helmbold, but the most money ever expended for this purpose in this country in a short time was for the Government bonds and to hasten the completion of the Pacific Railroad."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "The newspaper is rapidly developing by differentiation. The journals of the future will be of two sorts—a journal for the few and a journal for the many. The former will be decorous and dear; there is reason to fear that the latter will be cheap and nasty. The one may be a paper written by gentlemen for gentlemen; the other by blackguards for blackguards."

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, May 17.

There was quite a commotion among the members of the press here, yesterday, on account of the President calling a special session of the Cabinet. War with Spain, trouble with the Feninns, Indian questions, probable resignation of Secretary Fish—that gentleman being absent from the city—and a thousand other reasons were assigned. The President, however, settled all surmises on the subject by stating that he simply convened the Cabinet because there was to be a lunch party given by Mrs. Grant to-day, at half-past one o'clock, and he desired to attend and to give the Cabinet Officers, with their families, the same opportunity.

The Reconstruction Committee have agreed to report a bill readmitting Georgia on terms like those applied to Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, with an addition that the four States named are allowed to organize and call into service their respective military forces.

The Committee on Ways and Means postponed the funding bill until next Tuesday.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 17.

Mr. Cameron, presenting a memorial for a general abolition of taxation on productions, spoke in favor of substitution of external for internal taxes and above all the abolition of the income tax.

Mr. Howard, from the Committee on Pacific Railroad, reported a substitute for the Marshall and San Diego Railroad bill. It grants twenty alternate sections of land on each side of the line in Territories and ten sections in any State through which the railroad may pass. Ordered printed and placed on the calendar.

The Fifteenth Amendment bill was called up at the expiration of the morning hour.

Mr. Ferry proposed a modification of his amendment, which prevents any further political disabilities than now exist. He then replied to Mr. Morton's remarks of yesterday, denying the right of the Senator to foist his own opinions upon the South and assume to make them the embodiment of the views of the whole Union. He denied the existence of any rebellious state of affairs South, and asserted the Republican party of the North were in favor of removal of political disabilities.

Mr. Morton replied at length to the argument of Mr. Ferry, whose views he said entitled him to a seat on the Democratic side of the Chamber, and whose arguments should lead him next to move the repeal of all pensions to Union soldiers or else to pension rebels. He also defended the Georgia bill from the charge of corruption, and argued that when admitted to participation in the government, the rebels of the South would turn upon and defy those whom they were now cajoling and flattering.

Mr. Johnson argued that the natural effect of prospective legislation in alienating the people of a State from the general government, to foster State pride and local independence of national authority.

Mr. Cameron expressed his conviction as the result of personal observation during a recent visit to the South that the rebellious spirit of the people was still alive, as shown by that contemptuous reference to northern men. When they acknowledge their guilt it is time enough to bestow clemency.

Mr. Revels having been called upon proceeded to define his position and that of the Republican party in Mississippi upon the question of general amnesty. He was in favor of removing disabilities in the South just as fast as the people gave evidence of loyalty. Whenever a man gave this evidence by ceasing to denounce and oppose the laws of Congress, by respecting them and laboring to carry them out, he was in favor of removing his disabilities. If this could be truly said of the whole State he would be in favor of removing the disabilities of that State and of Mississippi. The Republican party had pledged itself to universal amnesty, and the Legislature had redeemed that pledge by passage of resolutions asking Congress to remove disabilities. The condition of things in Mississippi was exceptional. Lawlessness and violence prevailing in other reconstructed States did not exist there, but the people were harmonious and prosperous. He was in favor of amnesty in Mississippi.

Mr. Drake made an argument against the general removal of disabilities.

During discussion it was proposed to take up the House bill on the subject, which had been received from that body, but objection was made on the ground that the pending bill had been carefully matured by the Judiciary Committee, while the House bill was defective.

At 5 o'clock, after a short executive session, the Senate adjourned.

House.

Consideration of the bill to revive American commerce and navigation was resumed. Lynch giving notice that he would call for a vote on Thursday.

Wood contended that our commercial interests were not suffering, and that it was only navigation or ship building interest that was decreasing, the reasons for which he stated at length.

Washburne, of Wisconsin, favored generally the bill, ascribing the decrease of American shipping principally to the unfriendliness of England during the war, and giving notice to the lobby that no scheme of subsidies would pass this Congress. He believed the duty could be removed from shipbuilding materials without harm to American interests, and if the interest of American shipping could be promoted by a system of discriminating duties he would say abrogate at once your commercial treaties and discriminate in favor of American bottoms. The bill went over till to-morrow.

Julian asked leave to present two petitions against Stephen J. Field, Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and Ogden Hoffman, Judge de facto of the United States for the District of California, and praying that articles of impeachment be presented against them.

Banks objected.

Julian thereupon presented them under rule and had them referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Roots introduced a bill incorporating the Texas Pacific Railroad Company, and granting lands thereto. Referred.

The naval appropriation bill was taken up in Committee of the Whole and discussed by Hale, Morgan and Schofield.

Morgan condemned the Department for having, in violation of law, paid to officers of the navy 33 and one-third per cent., or $37,000 in addition to their legal pay.

Schofield contended that it was strictly in accordance with law.

Morgan continued to denounce the extravagance of the Department, followed by Stevens and Cox on the same side.

Sargeant defended the Department, and at half-past four a recess was taken.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Thrice Armed!—Thrice is he armed who keeps within reach of his hand a specific that at one and the same time will strengthen, regulate and purify his system when enfeebled, disordered and corrupted.

Such is the three-fold operation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and hence the great superiority of that standard vegetable restorative over all medicines that are merely tonics and nothing else. The effect of the ordinary astringent tinctures and extracts upon the bowels is disastrous, and upon the deprayed blood and bile they produce no beneficial effects whatever. In dyspepsia and liver complaint all the fluids and humors of the body are more or less infected, and the bowels are often badly constipated. An unmodified astringent—quinine for instance—does infinitely more harm than good in such cases. In Hostetter's Bitters, on the other hand, the stimulating and tonic elements are qualified with aperients and antiseptic ingredients. The finest laxatives and blood depurents in the vegetable kingdom are intermixed with those of a purely invigorating nature, and under the operation of this admirable combination the three important processes of invigoration, regulation and purification go on together. The rapidity with which the disordered organization returns to its natural condition, under a course of the Bitters, is due to this cause. Every disturbed function of the body is favorably affected by the various properties of this comprehensive and well balanced preparation. As a general rule the bowels are more subject to irregularities, and the fluids more liable to become vitiated in spring and summer than in winter, and hence the Bitters are especially valuable as a spring and summer alterative, corrective and invigorant. At all seasons where the seeds of intermittent fevers infect the air, this healthful vegetable elixir should be taken as a protective medicine.

He does not specify any particular shaped wedge, nor of what material it shall be made. All rods made as above described outside of his manufactory, are direct infringements.

This, therefore is to caution Oil Operators, and all others, against buying or using any rods so made, except those of his manufacture, as by so doing they will lay themselves liable, and will be dealt with according to law. WM. J. INNIS.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE MORNING HERALD, TITUSVILLE, May 17, 1870—5 P. M.

The petroleum market continues inactive, and prices are a shade easier in several localities. There appears to be but little desire on the part of buyers to operate, while on the other hand there is but little oil offered save at a price much above the views of buyers. The quotations from outside markets have shown a steady decline, for the past week, which has resulted in a similar feeling and weakness upon the creek. Upon the lower creek the best bids reported are at $4.35 but the majority of buyers were offering but $4.30 with sellers asking from $4.35 to $4.40 for the limited amounts exposed for sale. Upon the Upper creek $4.30 was bid up to 12 m., after which buyers offered but $4.25 which was the best price bid at the close, with sellers at $4.30. The markets outside continue dull and depressed.

PATENT STEEL JARS.

The undersigned hereby give notice to manufacturers and parties making, selling or using Drilling Jars made of wrought iron or steel combined, that by virtue of certain assignments duly recorded at the United States Patent Office, we own the sole and absolute right, title and interest in three patents for Drilling Jars: one granted to James C. Eastman, in July, 1867, and two to Edward Guilford, in May, 1865; said patents covering all Jars made of wrought iron and steel combined, and applied substantially in the manner represented in said patents and generally known as steel jars.

Griffin's Patent

WATER PACKER!

This is one of the most useful Patents for oil operators ever invented. It has several advantages over any other Seed Bag or water packer in use. 1st. It can be put down quicker and is instantly ready for use as there is no waiting for seed to swell, and by its quick action the well is kept clean. 2d. It can never fasten tubing or casing in a well so that it cannot be taken out readily

Every other Packer in Use has Fastened Strings of Tubing and Casing, so they cannot be Drawn From the Well.

3d. It is so constructed by means of a left hand screw thread that it can be loosened in a few minutes and removed from the well without difficulty. Even the caving in of the rock above the Packer will not prevent the casing being drawing out readily. It can be taken out and put back without repairs.

4th. This is the only Water Packer in use that has a Patent on, all others being an infringement upon the rights secured by letters Patent granted by the United States to Anson D. Griffin, August 13th, 1867. The Packer is now offered to the public at the low price of Twelve Dollars each, and the money will be refunded by us or our agents to all parties buying them where they do not give entire satisfaction.

PATENT ROOFING.—Mr. J. H. Barnett requests that orders for his patent paint for roofs be left with Benj. Hill at Gibbs' grocery store, on Franklin street.

THE new well mentioned yesterday as being drilled near the lower mill, below this city, is owned by Messrs. Fish, Armstead & Harris, and not A. H. Bronson as stated.

A PORTION of a human hand was found near Rouseville last week, and it is supposed that somebody has been fooling around with torpedoes in that vicinity, though nothing was heard to drop.

AN individual near West Hickory used benzine for mixing up stove blacking a few days since. There was considerable delay in the funeral exercises, occasioned by the difficulty in obtaining a hearse from Tidioute.

CENSUS TAKERS.—The Warren Mail states that Nat. S. Falconer, of Warren, G. W. Kinnear, of Youngsville, and Mr. McClintock, of the Tidioute Journal, have been appointed the Deputies by Marshal Murdoch to take the census of Warren county.

GREAT PREPARATIONS are being made for the proper observance of "Decoration Day" in Washington and other large cities. It is to be hoped that the day will be observed with due ceremony everywhere throughout the country. The decoration of the graves of the Confederate dead has become quite an institution at the South. Stores and other places of public business are closed, and the whole community unite in paying honor to the memory of those who fought and fell for the "Lost Cause." A loyal people ought surely to pay as much and more honor to those who wore the blue, and fell fighting for the Stars and Stripes.

A TALE OF A MONKEY.—During the recent exhibitions given here by Messrs. Gardner & Forepaugh, there arose a little difficulty in one of the side shows connected with the "big show" which came near proving disastrous to one of the parties concerned at least. It appears that among the other attractions of the moral exhibition was a monkey; one of the highly intelligent frisky, kind, whose antics upon the horizontal bar were well calculated to amuse and attract the juvenile portion of the community, and fill the proprietors pockets with fractional currency. Now an employee of this establishment owned a sixteenth in the aforesaid ape, and thinking that the land or working interest was getting too heavy dividends, he proposed to receive a certain share of the receipts, which was not accepted. Then arose a wild scene, and a struggle took place for the possession of the important Jocko. There was danger of the latter being pulled into two parts, or monkeys, but at this juncture the crowd outside began to take advantage of the situation and press in, seeing which the doorkeeper dropped his part of the disputed property and the owner of the sixteenth interest retired, dragging the chattering ape towards a neighboring ravine, where he was upon the point of sacrificing the same upon the altar of revenge when the bystanders interfered, and the case was afterwards settled without loss of blood.

ROMEO WITHOUT THE JULIET.—It is with pleasure that we announce the return of the legitimate drama to the Titusville stage, or rather that the "legitimate" would return if there had been any stage to return to; and although in the midst of a busy season of circuses, side shows, Circassian girls and double-headed pigs, we willingly forego all these, and come down to Mr. Shakespeare's best and touching tragedy, namely, that of Romeo and Juliet, with the Juliet omitted, and Romeo in a new role, that of rolling down hill, under the persuasive influence of several six shooters in the hands of the enraged Capulets. But to our story. Upon the sunny slope of Watson's hill, which lies about one mile in a northeasterly direction from this city, stands a simple cottage where resides a respectable working man whom we will term Stillson. He is married and is employed in the vicinity of Shamburg, and during his absence Mrs. Stillson is left to superintend the little home alone, until the returning Saturday night brings Stillson and happiness again.

In the vicinity lived a young and somewhat ardent specimen of humanity who rejoices in the title of Blivens; that is not his name but out of regard for his friends we will so call him.

Now Blivens had for some time been attracted towards the "cottage on the hill" where dwelt the unsuspecting and happy Stillson. He was generally attracted more during the time when the former was absent at Shamburg, and under the combined influence of his passion and the recent "Oneida Community" illustrations in a prominent illustrated weekly, he mustered up courage to address a billet-doux to the object of his affections, who up to this time was in entire ignorance that she had an admirer, save her husband. Blivens' note was scented with a delicate perfume of mingled heliotrope and benzine, and stated in highly colored ink that "he had seen her and was desirous of making her acquaintance." The note was thrown aside and treated in contemptuous silence, but Blivens was not to be consigned to oblivion in that manner, and in a day or two another sweet-scented epistle was dropped on the lady's doorstep, signed "Romeo," soliciting an early introduction, etc. Thinking that matters had progressed sufficiently far, Mrs. Stillson showed this note to a neighbor, and asked for advice as to the best manner to rid herself of the importunate "Romeo." "Why! answer the note, saying you will meet him, then you can easily put an end to his Shaksperian ravings."

This advice was acted upon. A diminutive epistle in feminine chirography was left on the door step for the modern Romeo, stating that an interview would be granted at the cottage on the hill at precisely five minutes past eleven o'clock, p m. Meanwhile the husband was notified of the coming interview, and he, with several choice friends, were stationed about the premises ready to act their part in the coming comedy of errors. With the reception of the note Romeo's spirits arose, and he prepared himself for a stunning effect upon the fair Juliet when she should first behold him. A silk hat was poised at an angle of 45 degrees over his brow, which was dripping with moisture and bay rum, a spring suit covered his manly form, and upon his breath might have been detected the mingled perfume of Zimmerman's root beer and cachous. As the moment for the appointed meeting drew nigh Blivens ascended the hill lightly, stepping upon stones and sticks, to save the polish upon his boots. "But soft! what light through yonder window breaks!
It is the east! and Juliet is the sun.
Arise fair sun, and kill the envious moon,
Who is already sick and pale with grief.
* * * She speaks, yet she says nothing."

Thus mused he until he tapped gently upon the back door of the Capulets. The servant were out evidently visiting with the Montagues, for Juliet opened the door and Blivens entered. But what form is that entering from an adjoining bed room? Aha! Mercutio! Benvolio! where are you! Help! help! But it was no use, Romeo's goose was fast approaching that state of culinary perfection where further artificial heat is unnecessary. The doors opened, and in stalked five or six followers of the Capulets, armed with six shooters. Explanations were asked and given. "Romeo" offered to pay Stillson's stage fare from Shamburg and back again, if this would be accepted as an equivalent for the trouble caused. Then, under the inspiration of fear, assumed a tragic air and said, "If I must die, give me a fair shake." Finally, after two hours of fearful suspense, he was allowed to depart under promise of better behavior, and the places that knew him once know him no more, for he has gone down the creek.

Ah, never was there a tale of more woe,
Than that of this oily "Romeo."

BOYNTON'S HOT AIR FURNACES.—We would direct our readers' attention to the advertisement of Mr. W. G. Gardner, dealer in stoves, tin, hardware, etc., on Franklin street, and who is now introducing Boynton's celebrated hot air furnaces. Hot air furnaces are rapidly superseding all other heating apparatus in the larger cities, and as a matter of convenience and economy, as well as insuring safety against fire, are beyond question the most desirable. The Boynton furnace is in the judgment of many persons the best ever offered to the public. They have been in the market many years, and have lately been brought to a state of seeming perfection by the inventor. There are various styles, both portable and stationary, and the prices vary according to capacity and style of manufacture. As many of our citizens are now building, it may prove advantageous to them to call upon Mr. Gardner and examine the Boynton furnaces. Mr. G. has had long experience in this trade in the East, and having made a specialty of setting furnaces, can guarantee satisfaction in that particular.

"OUR RULERS AND OUR RIGHTS."—This is the title of a new and valuable illustrated work by Hon. Anson Willis, of New York, embodying outlines of the United States Government, its origin, branches, department, institutions, officers and modes of operation. It comprise a fund of most valuable information, especially to the student of our political history, furnishing a correct idea of the organization and mode of operating the United States Government, together with an insight into the machinery by which it is done. A local canvasser will call upon our citizens and solicit subscriptions to the work.

SPECIAL MEETING.

MONDAY EVENING, May 16.

Present—Messrs. Bloss, Bryan, Cadwallader, Keown, Lowrie (4th ward), and Witherop.

Absent—Messrs. Lowry (3d ward), and Stratton.

The President stated that the object of the meeting was to fix the rate per cent. to be levied as tax on assessed value of property in the city, for city and school purposes.

After some discussion the following estimates were adopted as the amounts required for city purposes:

| | |
|---|---|
| Streets, | $20,000 |
| Gas, | 3,000 |
| Old indebtedness, | 7,000 |
| Fire Department, | 5,000 |
| Poor, | 2,000 |
| Police, | 4,000 |
| Contingent, | 5,000 |
| Total, | $44,000 |

Mr. Cadwallader, seconded by Mr. Bryan, moved that a Committee of two be appointed to confer with the School Board in reference to the amount of tax to be levied. Adopted.

The Finance Committee were appointed as such committee.

Mr. Cadwallader, Chairman of Law Committee, reported that a written proposal had been received from Messrs. McNairy & Claflin, of Cleveland, proposing to deduct $150 from their bill for bridge, provided the matter is closed and payment made at once.

On motion of Mr. Witherop—seconded by Mr. Lowrie (of Fourth Ward)—the proposal was accepted and the Finance Committee instructed to notify Messrs. McNaery & Claflin of the acceptance of their proposal and to forward them a draft for the amount of their bill, less $150.

On motion of Mr. Lowrie—seconded by Mr. Witherop—the Finance Committee were authorized to borrow $1,000 for the use of the city, and issue bonds for the same.

On motion of Mr. Lowrie an order was directed to be issued to the Finance Committee for $140.66, to meet the bill of Joseph M. Ward for hose.

On motion adjourned to Wednesday evening, May 18th.

GEO. A. CHASE, City Clerk.

Decoration Day.

The impressive annual custom of decorating the graves of the soldiers who died in the service of their country during the war, will occur on the 30th of May. Two years have elapsed since it was observed in this city, the late Col. Davidson being the orator of that occasion. No preparations have yet been made for observing the present anniversary, but the following communication was received by us yesterday, and if our surviving soldiers are disposed to act upon its suggestions, and make an organized effort for an appropriate demonstration, we presume they will have the hearty co-operation of our citizens generally:

HEADQUARTERS COL. SAM'L. BLACK POST, GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, TITUSVILLE, May 17th, 1870.

Editors Morning Herald:

At a meeting of this Post last evening we decided to visit your city to decorate the graves of soldiers on the 30th of this month.

We received a letter from Col. Duncan yesterday morning stating that the Post at Oil City had as yet made no arrangements for the observance of the day.

If the soldiers of Titusville should decide to join with us our committee will meet a committee from Titusville at any time or place and arrange a programme.

Hoping your decision will be favorable, I am, in haste, A. B. MUDGE,
Adjutant Post 167.

The proprietor of Union Hall, occupied by the Soldiers' Orphan School, has tendered the use of the hall for a meeting of soldiers and civilians who desire to cooperate in an appropriate demonstration. We bespeak a good attendance and an earnest and concerted effort to render these hallowed ceremonies worthy the place and the occasion. Meeting at 8 o'clock this evening.

TITUSVILLE BATH HOUSE.—There have been several attempts hitherto to meet the public requirement in the shape of a bath house, but nothing that has proved at all satisfactory until the present season. Mr. Ephraim Ralph has now completed an establishment of this kind which seems to be perfectly adapted to the public wants, and is worthy of a corresponding patronage. The building is located on Water street, a few yards east of Franklin street. It is a substantial two story frame building, fronting 20 feet on Water street, and extending back 52 feet. The office entrance is on Water street. There are eight spacious rooms on the first floor, each finished in handsome style, the wainscot in walnut and ash, and the walls and ceilings in a manner to correspond. The rooms are finely furnished. The bath tubs are of the French pattern, copper lined, and supplied with hot and cold water. The apparatus is very complete throughout, each room having a shower as well as body bath, the temperature of which can be perfectly regulated. There is one family room, provided with two tubs, and two of the rooms have water closets. In the rear of the building is an elevated tank, underneath which is erected the furnace from which extends the circulating pipes. The water used is pure spring water, furnished from a Sugget patent well. A room adjoining the office has been reserved for a barber shop. The house will be open between the hours of 6 a. m. and 9 p. m., and on Saturdays till 12 p. m. There will be a female attendant to wait upon ladies.

Mr. Ralph has been at a considerable outlay in building and fitting up this establishment and we have no doubt it will prove a remunerative investment. Subscribers for season tickets are requested to call and procure them without delay, as but a limited number will be issued. The house was opened for the first time on Saturday, and there was a constant throng of visitors for twenty-four hours succeeding. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness," and nothing so conduces to good health and a clear conscience as frequent baths.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING.—All reports to the contrary, notwithstanding, we are prepared at all times to furnish competent Paper Hangers and Decorators. Also have in our employ a man to make and hang White Holland Shades, Lambesquisces, Cornices, Lace Curtains, and have trimmings for same in stock at all times. Prices for our work legitimate.

Titusville, May 17—tf.

FIVE THIRTIETH OF MAY.

Fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers,
Wives, and comrades of the braves
Whose forsaken bodies moulder
Day by day, in quiet graves
Leave awhile the busy present,
Give this day to tender thought
Of the time when your beloved
Gladness to the old home brought.

Then—another step ascending
On the mount of Memory—
Of the time when Sumter's cannon
Shook the land from sea to sea;
Of the time when War's loud clarion
Sounded through the atmosphere,
Calling from the heart of women
Many an anguished sob and tear.

Of the time when trembling fingers
Interlaced in mute good-bye,
While the soul's sublime emotions
Flushed the cheek, and fired the eye;
Of the time of weary waiting,
Dread suspense, and torturing fears,
Through the trials and the horrors
Of those lingering, cruel years;

Of the time, when and your labors
For their comfort, tidings came
That your noble ones had fallen,
Bleeding at the feet of Fame;
Of the time when to your vision
Hope's fair star seemed to eclipse,
While you pressed the parting kisses
On your martyrs' pallid lips.

O remember, when you scatter
Flowers upon your soldiers' graves,
Love will bear the beauteous tokens
Over Time's etherial waves
To their spirits, happy, grateful
That your hearts no change have known,
That you trust with faith unswerving
Soon again to clasp your own.

Poaching in Venango County.

Editors Morning Herald:

It is a usual Sunday's recreation for sportsmen or loafers to spend that day in the immediate neighborhood of Venango county, shooting small birds, setting the woods on fire, and stealing; all or any of which are supposed to be illegal. You will be so good as to instruct your constituents that measures have been taken to arrest all such hereafter and bring them before Esq. Strawbridge, of Cherrytree township. BUCKWHEAT.

May 17, 1870.

JEWISH HOLIDAYS.—Sunday, the 15th of May, was the festival of Sheenee Pesach in the Jewish calendar. This festival is not much observed among the Jews in this country, but in the East, where the old customs are vigorously kept up, the day is a general holiday. The festival of Pesach is an after-Passover for the benefit of those who have been absent from home on the regular Passover, so that they may be able to appear in their temple, and offer their sacrificial gifts, which they have not been able to do on the festival of Pesach.

The 19th of May is also a Jewish festival, but more generally observed. This is the festival of Lag Beomer, or the thirty-third day after the first of the Passover. This is a great day of rejoicing after the season of sorrow and fasting immediately succeeding the Pesach. It is to commemorate the staying of a pestilence which had carried off great numbers of the disciples of Akiba, one of the Talmudists. It has likewise a symbolical interpretation, symbolizing the thirty-three days cleansing of the Jews from the filth of slavery after the flight from Egypt, and preparatory to the giving of the law which was received seventeen days later.

The first day of every Jewish month is a half holiday, and by some Jews this day and the one immediately preceding are kept as fast days. They are called by some Yom Kippur Kaddan, or Minor day of Atonement.

SOUND PREACHING.—The Rev. Wm. F. Day, formerly of Meadville, and now of Akron, Ohio, is quite sound on the tobacco nuisance. The Akron Beacon reports him as follows:

Last evening at the Methodist church, just before the last hymn was sung, Rev. W. F. Day, the pastor, rose and made the following, or nearly similar remarks:

"This room (referring to the lecture room) is not intended to be always used for general services such as are now held in it, and for this reason the seats are made movable. Its use will be for the festivals of the church, to set tables in and eat in. Last Monday morning I came into this room and found, where a very respectable man had sat, a large puddle of nasty, filthy tobacco spittle. It was not fit to have been in any man's mouth. I was sorry to see it on the floor, but I was glad the man had ejected it from his mouth. He was right in cleaning out his mouth. But to clean it out in such a place! Here where we expect to set tables and eat in time to come. The only place that I can imagine where a man should with impunity spit out such a filthy mess would be a bottomless pit, if such could be found. He should not clean out his mouth on the pavement for ladies' long dresses to sweep up, and I know of hardly another place than a bottomless pit. When I was a boy there used to be a notion that we were running and our sidesched, if we would stop, pick up a stone and spit on the other side of it, replacing it again, our sides would stop aching. Any man who chews a quid of tobacco would do an honor to himself, if he only would spit under some stone. Or, he might spit in a handkerchief, and go off and bury it, for he could not ask any decent person to wash it for him. I hope there will be no more puddles of tobacco filth in this or any other room in the church. But if you come to church with such a foul mess in your mouth and must clean it out, just come forward and occupy one of the pulpit chairs and spit in my hat.

STAFF APPOINTMENTS.—The Adjutant General's Department has received notification of the appointment of the following staff officers by Major General A. L. Pearson, commanding the Eighteenth Division Pennsylvania National Guard: Lieutenant Colonel and Assistant Adjutant General, John McLanahan; Lieutenant Colonel and Division Inspector, Charles A. Miller; Lieutenant Colonel and Surgeon in Chief, J. H. Roberts; Major and Division Paymaster, George W. Murphy; Major and Division Commissary, Joseph Brown; Major and Division Quartermaster, W. P. Hunker; Major and Judge Advocate, W. B. Cook; Major and Aid de Camp, George W. Morris; Major and Aid de Camp, George Jeremy.

OPERATORS.—If you want GOOD rods, buy the "INNIS RODS" and have good rods, but do not be DECEIVED into buying sucker rods under the name of "GOOD" rods that are an infringement on the INNIS PATENT ROD.

Its merits are too well known the world over to need comment. They are now made of hardened steel, which makes them much more durable than other machines. There is no machine sold that is its superior, as hundreds that have purchased in Titusville and vicinity, in the last few months, can testify. Sold in Titusville, only by
